H. G. MacBain On City Council

BUSINESS MAN TAKES SEAT AT TODAY'S SESSION

Unanimous Appointment to Hold Until Election Occurs In April

Harry G. MacBain, Glendale business man, and director of the Chamber of Commerce, was appointed to the City Council this morning. He took the oath of office at 10:45 o'clock. It was the first order of business to come before the council after a forty-minute session of the council in the whole, which Mr. MacBain attended.

The motion to appoint Mr. MacBain to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Councilman Asa Hall was made by Councilman C. E. Kimlin. It was seconded by Councilman S. S. Gilhuly and carried by unanimous vote.

Officially Seated
After being sworn in, the new councilman took the chair formerly occupied by Councilman Gilhuly, the latter moving into the place left vacant by Councilman Hall.

Although Councilman Hall would have had two more years to serve of his four-year term, the appointment of Mr. MacBain is only until next April, when the place will be filled by election. This is in accordance with the state law, which provides that appointee city councilmen serve until the time of the next municipal election only.

Councilman MacBain is the second member of the present city body to be named by appointment. Councilman Gilhuly was appointed and sworn in February 7 of this year, to take the place of W. A. Horn, resigned.

The appointment of Councilman MacBain comes after his name had

Poor Left $200 In Will But No Poor Are Found

GRANTON, Wis., Dec. 26.—A bequest in the will of the late Carl Mundt, of $200 to the "poor of the village of Granton," may lapse for lack of a legatee. It is claimed that there are no poor in the village. A bequest of $200 "for the poor children of Germany" may also be set aside as too indefinite, attorneys say.

Gain Is Small On Marriages In Leap Year

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 26.—Leap year was not a "wedding success" in California. The total marriages for twelve months were estimated today by L. E. Ross, director of the bureau of vital statistics, at 55,000, which represents a gain of only about one per cent over last year.

Not only did leap year fail to materially increase the number of marriages "out of luck," if the statistics mean anything, but, according to Ross, 32.2 per cent of all the brides were between 15 and 20 years, and 29.5 between 21 and 25. From 26 to 30 was less lucky during leap year than last year, and the same was true for women over 30.

JAPS WAITING TO RE-OPEN BAN ISSUE

Orient Refuses to Consider Immigration Question Closed Matter

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service.

TOKIO, Dec. 26.—Despite the attitude of the United States, Japan does not regard the immigration issue closed.

Information of a most reliable nature was obtained today that the Japanese government intends to reopen the question just as soon as it considers the time opportune.

Foreign Minister Shidehara is now engaged in a study of the form of the protest and the method of its presentation. It is believed Ambassador Designate Matsudaira will take instructions with him to Washington to seize the first favorable opportunity to take the matter up with Secretary of State Hughes.

A semi-official spokesman pointed out today that the government was unable to regard the immigration issue as a closed incident because nationwide public sentiment in Japan is unwilling to drop the matter and would be likely to overthrow any ministry accepting the United States' viewpoint.

All sections of the press continually refer to the immigration question, declaring they cannot recognize the United States' professions of friendship as sincere as long as the ban prevails.

TARIFF FIGHT LOOMS FOR CONGRESS

Cotton Manufacturers Ask Higher Duty Be Placed On Foreign Goods

By A. O. HAYWARD
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—In addition to all the other odds and ends of legislation which must be cleared up before March 4, the 68th Congress is likely to have a tariff fight on its hands.

It was learned today that the cotton mill industry of New England and North Carolina immediately after the Christmas recess will come before Congress with a proposal for a higher duty on foreign products of a competitive nature. The claim will be that an increase in the tariff duties is necessary to re-open and keep going the cotton mills in the United States. At the same time an appeal will also be made by the cotton industry to President Coolidge for relief under the flexible provisions of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act.

Democratic leaders in Congress announced today they would fight any increase in the tariff rates on cotton goods. If such should be attempted they announced they will propose legislation for the reduction of tariff on these and many other lines of protected manufactures.

Morgan Butler, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, said cotton manufacturers should avail themselves of the flexible provisions of the tariff law to secure increased protection because of the great increase in cotton manufactures' imports.

GREAT PROSPERITY FOR COMING YEAR

Secretary of Treasury Mellon Points Out Reasons For Progress; Outlines Certain Fundamental Requirements

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
For International News Service, Copyright 1924

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—No year since that following the election of 1896 gives such promise of commercial progress and national prosperity as does 1925, in the opinion of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

"The situation in America looks more favorable for sound and orderly economic development than at any time since the war," the secretary declared today.

However, in order that the United States may enter the new year with a view to obtaining the maximum of prosperity and progress and that future years may guarantee to the people of the republic prosperous and healthy conditions, certain fundamental requirements must be met, according to Mellon's view.

Three Requirements Pointed Out

Among the paramount of these are:

- 1.—Sound economic administration of the national and state governments.
- 2.—Tax reform with assessments so levied that the source from which the returns are derived will remain unharmed.
- 3.—Application of conservative, sane principles to the carrying on of commercial and industrial institutions.

Secretary Mellon believes that the American people are pledged to the application of these principles, according to the spirit reflected from the last national election when the voters "repudiated various theories inconsistent with economic laws and expressed themselves in favor of a conservative and orderly program of handling out governmental affairs."

"It is only through hard work, economy and sound principles that we have a right to expect true progress," Mellon asserted.

Reconstruction Problem Met, Claim

During the last four years the administration has been occupied with the problem of reconstruction and this has succeeded, in Mellon's opinion. It was pointed out that in 1921, when the adjustment of government finances to peace time basis started, there existed a staggering public debt of $24,000,000,000.

"Expenditures are reduced from about $6,500,000,000 during the fiscal year of 1921 to $3,500,000,000 in 1924 through the establishment of the budget."

"In 1920 Federal taxes collected amounted to $54 per capita; next year they should be but $27, a cut of exactly one half," Mellon said.

"At the same time the public debt has been reduced $2,800,000,000 since March 1, 1921, and provision made in each year's budget for debt retirements of about $500,000,000, chargeable against ordinary receipts."

Banking, Business In Sound Shape

The secretary feels that the condition brought about by the partial collapse of the economic structure of the United States shortly after the war, languished business, closed factories, unemployment, banks paralyzed with frozen loans—has passed.

"It has taken time for this situation completely to remedy itself, the adjustment has now been made and both banking and business conditions are in a thoroughly sound position," he declared.

Prices were described as comparatively stable, production increasing, employment better, while bank deposits have increased six to eight billion dollars since 1921. Bank reserves are said to be unusually high and frozen loans liquidated.

"The country's banking and credit structure was never in a stronger position and more able to support continued business and industrial expansion," Mellon declared.

'KID' MCCOY CASE NOW WITH JURY

Instructions of Trial Judge Considered Favorable to Accused Slayer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—Following the reading of instructions by Superior Judge Crail, the jury in the case of "Kid" McCoy, accused of the murder of Mrs. Teresa Mors, retired shortly after 11 o'clock this morning to consider a verdict.

The instructions given by Judge Crail were looked upon as strongly favoring the "Kid," as the jurors were ordered not to consider subsequent acts as indicating McCoy as more likely to be a murderer than if he had been brought into court without having shot three persons on the day following the murder of Mrs. Mors.

LOCATE COVER OF INFERNAL MACHINE INJURING ATTORNEY

Wrapper Indicates Package Mailed In San Francisco; Woman May Have Sent Tragic Gift, Declare Officers

Investigators searching for clues to the sender of the "Christmas gift" bomb that yesterday morning exploded and probably fatally injured Ernest M. Torchia, attorney, at his home, 1329 Campbell street, Casa Verdugo, adjoining Glendale, today discovered the coarse manila wrapping paper cover that was around the box when the attorney removed it in his Los Angeles office before carrying the package home.

The paper covering bore a San Francisco postmark and, the officers believe, the writing is that of a woman. Investigators are continuing their search for the sender's address, which had been torn off by Attorney Torchia before he threw away the wrapper. Officers are now searching for "the woman in the case."

It is said that when the "Christmas gift" arrived through the mail at the attorney's office he recognized the handwriting and tore off the sender's address before throwing away the outside wrapper. The inside wrapper contained a warning not to open the package until Christmas.

The attorney followed the suggestion—and he probably will die: his daughter, Miss Emily Torchia, aged 18, at his side when he opened the package at the family Christmas tree yesterday morning, was painfully but not seriously injured. Mrs. Torchia, who happened to be in another room at the moment, was not hurt.

Postoffice Inspectors

Wait for Official Report

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—So far postoffice inspectors here have not been asked to look for the sender of the "Christmas gift" bomb sender who posted here the package which, when opened, probably fatally injured E. M. Torchia.

Explosion Victim Is Blind, Deaf and Terribly Torn

Ernest M. Torchia, attorney, who was seriously injured Christmas morning, when a bomb exploded in a Christmas package he was opening at a family gathering at his home, 1329 North Campbell street, Casa Verdugo, lies near death at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Although seriously injured and near death, attending physicians say there may be a slight chance for his recovery, which means that he will be maimed and possibly helpless the rest of his life.

Hunt In Italian Section For Clew to Bomb Sender

Into the intrigues and deadly jealousies of the Italian section of Los Angeles delved detectives, deputy sheriffs and postoffice inspectors today in search of a clue that might reveal the identity of the bomber who sent the infernal machine, disguised as a Christmas package, which exploded yesterday in the hands of Ernest M. Torchia, prominent Italian attorney, at his home, 1329 North Campbell street, Casa Verdugo, adjoining Glendale, and probably fatally injured him.

Astonishing surgeons at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital the terribly injured man continued to hold fast to life today. His condition is unchanged and death is expected momentarily.

As the officers combed the Little Italy section of Los Angeles on the theory that Torchia was the victim of a bitter old-world vendetta or a blackmail organization, it was reported that several persons are already under suspicion and one of them may be placed under arrest within a short time.

Upon the search for the outside wrapper of the gay-wrapped Yuletide "gift package" which hid the bomb depends, to a great extent, early solution of the mystery, the officers admitted today.

Miss Emily Torchia, age 18, the attorney's daughter, was at his side when he opened the explosive package and received minor injuries. Mrs. Torchia was in another room and so escaped death or injuries.

The fact that the box was sent through the mails has caused the Little Italy section of Los Angeles United States authorities to take a hand in the investigation.

Emily Torchia Tells Own Story of Xmas Tragedy

Miss Emily Torchia, age 18, daughter of Attorney Ernest M. Torchia, of Casa Verdugo, victim of a Christmas present bomb explosion, tells the following story of the outrage:
As long as I live I will never forget this terrible Christmas. It will be stamped on my memory to my dying day. To think I was leaning over my father's shoulder when the bomb exploded and so terribly wounded him. And then to think that I escaped with but a few scratches is something I will never understand.
Papa and I both got up about the same time. As nearly as I can remember, it was about 6:45 o'clock when he called to me and said: "Emily, let's go downstairs and open our Christmas presents." Papa had on his bathrobe and slippers. I slipped on a negligee and, arm in arm, we walked down stairs together, extending to each other a "Merry Christmas." The Christmas tree, that we had

'GOLD' FOUND IN STATE'S SANDPITS

California Gravel Sales
Exceed Metal Mined
By $12,000,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—"I've been working on the railroad." That half century old song accurately describes the business occupation of thousands of men during the past year and there is every indication that fully as many handlers of the pick and tamping bar will be found along the rights of way in 1925.

Construction and betterment work have been active in all sections, but the west has witnessed more new construction of rail lines than all the remainder of the country combined.

The construction program of the Southern Pacific called for the expenditure of $49,000,000 and about half this sum will be carried over for disbursement during the coming year. Altogether 382 miles of new road were started by the company in Oregon, California, New Mexico, Nevada and Lower California. The construction in the latter district will serve to link the west coast of the United States with Mexico City and promises to develop valuable trade with Mexico.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road laid 133 miles of new rails this year and will spend $11,000,000 for 119 miles of additional double track the coming season providing a double track system all the way from Los Angeles to Chicago. Each road has ordered thousands of new refrigerator cars and other equipment to handle the traffic which these improvements will open up.

A gold mine has always stood as a symbol of riches and prosperity but while gold production in California mines yielded approximately $14,000,000 in 1924, the amount of cement produced there was valued at $26,000,000, and sales of sand gravel and crushed rock totaled $15,000,000. Development of lime deposits for industrial uses increased 100 per cent.

In spite of the fact that there was a general revival of mining in the late months of this year, the part played by coinage in consumption of the precious was a minor one compared with other years. The value of the gold used in the arts and sciences totaled $10,000,000 more than the total amount produced during the year in the United States.

Copper owed its advance in value to industrial consumption due in large part to development of new uses and this was true also of lead and zinc. Silver mine owners made a determined and successful attempt to increase the use of the white metal and production was pressed in consequence.

Alaska alone turned out $4,200,000 worth of gold and silver and $10,321,641 worth of copper in the first eleven months of this year.

WOMAN PUZZLES MEDICAL WORLD

Spanish Matron Sleepless
And Without Food for Four Years

MADRID, Dec. 26.—The remarkable case of a woman whom doctors say has neither eaten nor drunk anything nor had an hour's sleep for four years is exciting considerable interest among medical practitioners here.

She is a married woman named Amelie Baranda, and lives in the village of Montecillo, Burgos province.

According to the doctors' statements, she is kept alive solely by injections and the application of leeches.

In a report which they were asked to submit to the Spanish Academy of Medicine, Doctors Gutierrez and Pineda state that the patient has been under their care for four years, suffering from acute perigastric trouble.

She was unable to keep down either food or drink of any description, and when she was seized with pain from four to six leeches were applied to lessen congestion.

The doctors, in their report, state that this treatment was approved by specialists who were called in for consultation and add that, notwithstanding the woman is obviously fatigued, she is unable to sleep, and that they fear to administer sleeping draughts lest the variation of treatment may cause her to collapse. She is able to converse freely after the injections.

Famous Spanish medical scientists are at a loss to explain the case other than that it must be a miracle.

DENISHAWN DANCE NEARBY HILLSIDE COMPANY IS BACK ACREAGE OFFERED

Noted Exponents of Art to Appear in Los Angeles
Week of January 1

Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, with their company of Denishawn dancers, and Louis Horst, musical director, have returned to California and will be seen at the Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles, the week of January 1. It will be of interest to their Glendale friends to know that this is the same company which toured the east with much success during the past three seasons. Mr. Shawn and Miss St. Denis will own their Eagle Rock home and declare this their official residence.

Three distinct programs will be presented during the week and Ted Shawn, who several years ago created an Aztec ballet or dance drama, for which Homer Grun wrote fascinating music, finds great inspiration in the work of American composers. Two seasons ago he produced a Hopi ballet with music by Charles W. Cadman. Both of these Indian productions will be shown in Los Angeles next week.

This season, inspired by "Six American Sketches" done by Eastwood Lane, Mr. Shawn has produced a most amusing and delightful series of dances and tableaux. "The Crab Shooter," "Around the Ball," "Gringo Dance" and "North of Boston." These themes are based on old New England country dances and are not only the work of American composers but are absolutely American in their theme and content.

Wesley Kuhnle Plans Program of 'Requests'

Music lovers of Glendale and nearby cities are looking forward with keen pleasure to the request program to be given January 27 at the Tuesday Afternoon club-house by Wesley Kuhnle, local Glendale pianist of 111 West Maple street. Mr. Kuhnle will endeavor to present a program entirely selected by his friends and admirers. He has had his repertoire printed and has announced that anyone not receiving a list and desiring one should notify him at his studio home. He adds that requests received after January 5 will not be considered as the program must be made up then and final invitations issued.

Napoleon's Birthplace Given to French State

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Prince Victor, head of the House of Bonaparte, who inherited the estate of Napoleon III, on the death of Empress Eugenie, has given to the French state the house at Ajaccio in which Napoleon was born. This is the result of negotiations concerning the long-continued feud about certain property which the late Empress had claimed as having belonged to Napoleon III. Judgments delivered in 1902 and 1920 favored the Empress' claim in respect to a number of articles. Only two of these, which were in the Louvre, are now claimed by Prince Victor, and they are to be handed over to him. These are the sword of honor of Napoleon, as First Consul, and a music clock, which bears as a decoration the "Nymph of Couches" of Clodion.

Fully $5,000,000 is spent in New York dance halls each year.

Attractive Prices Made on Subdivision North of Mountain Street

Real estate buyers will never again have the opportunity to purchase such desirable hillside acreage at such low prices as are offered in Glendale Bowl acres, according to E. B. DuBain, real estate man, and head of the newly organized DuBain Realty Corporation. Mr. DuBain believes this subdivision will be one of the outstanding achievements in Southern California.

Glendale Bowl acres comprises 115 acres of hillside property near the end of Brand boulevard, entrance being at the corner of Mountain and Campbell streets. It is within a short distance of the business section of the city and adjoins Glendale's new 15-acre city park. The property will be sold at $2,750 per acre on easy terms with a five per cent discount for cash. An effort will be made to sell the tract before January 1.

Tract Accessible
Each acre, according to Mr. DuBain, is equal in size to five city lots, and as acres only 115 persons can become purchasers.

"I would not be surprised," said Mr. DuBain, "to find this property all sold out within forty-eight hours after our announcement in today's Glendale Evening News. Only by our unique method of wholesaling this property could we even attempt to offer it at such a price."

Glendale Bowl acres is easy to reach by street car or automobile; is near the end of the Pacific Electric and can be reached by a 25-minute drive from downtown Los Angeles. Desirable restrictions have been placed with all improvements available.

GOLD CURE FOUND RELIEF TO LUNGS

Danish Hospital Tries New Injection Serum With Good Results

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 26.—A new cure for tuberculosis is giving good results in many Danish hospitals. Titled the "gold cure," it is the discovery of Professor Moigaard, a well known Danish scientist, and is the result of more than three years' research. He found that a preparation of gold, sulphur and sodium rapidly killed the tubercle bacilli and was harmless when injected into healthy animals, but usually resulted fatally when injected into tuberculous animals.

The injection method, however, he has overcome by the injection of a serum, and the procedure now in use is to inject this serum and a few days later follow it with an injection of a mixture of the serum with the gold preparation, whose scientific name is sanocrysin. At first it was only given to patients regarded as hopeless and in many instances it hastened their death; but after being treated with the perfected cure many patients for whom there was no hope have improved.

ENGLAND STRAINS TO PAY WAR DEBT

Uncle Sam May Get Billions
Owed Him Long Before
He Expects Them

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.
LONDON, Dec. 26.—Great Britain's debt to the United States may be paid off long before it falls due under the funding agreement, if a campaign which is now under way to this end is successful.

Some British bankers are urging that Great Britain cannot stand the strain of the payment of $1,785,000,000 during the next six years, and that British trade and wealth can best be served by a gigantic effort during the next fifteen years to pay the debt off and take advantage of the saving of interest and funding charges. The British view of the debt situation was briefly put to the public as follows:

"For every $450 worth of blown-away or consumed goods we got from the United States at inflated prices we have, according to the debt agreement, to pay her $1200 in the course of the next six years, and the only way in which we can pay her is in gold and goods—principally in goods."

British View
J. F. Darling, a well-known British banker, drew the attention of the British public to the fact that in the debt agreement there is provision that Great Britain may repay the debt whenever she likes on three months' notice.

"It is in the use of this option and in the development of the Empire by which alone it can be exercised effectively that we can hope to attain to equality with the United States in the future," said Darling.

"The great importance of the option is not generally recognized, but it amounts to this, that every $500 paid now ahead of our actual obligations will reduce the total scheduled payments by $1,200. That is to say, every $500 worth of additional wool, rubber, and so on that we now produce and sell—or, rather give—to the United States will relieve us from giving them $1,200 later."

"Suppose, now, the Empire came together on this vitally important question, and a great Imperial effort was made to produce the goods necessary to get clear of the United States in, let me say, the next 15 years.

"What would be the result? The debt, with interest, would be liquidated for the annual average of $425,000,000. There would thus be a gain to the nation of no less than $5,000,000,000."

Darling declares that there are two ways to create the wealth necessary to carry out this plan. Production within the British Empire of things which the United States wants, and therefore will accept, such as gold, wool and rubber. Production within the British Empire of things which are now imported from the United States, such as cotton, wheat and oil.

The Daily News, in supporting the proposal, points out that reduction of imports from the United States is quite necessary and states that imports from the United States during the first nine months of this year were $750,000,000, as compared with $160,000,000 of exports.

Whether Darling's campaign will be effective or not remains to be seen, but it seems probable that some effort may be made in this line, particularly since it would relieve the unemployment situation, which threatens to become a permanent evil in Great Britain unless rapidly remedied.

Sticky Liquid Delays 25 Passenger Trains

DURBAN, South Africa, Dec. 26.—Traffic delayed twenty-five passenger trains carrying more than 4,000 people here recently. When two goods trains collided less than a quarter of a mile outside Durban main station a long line of freight trucks carried by the train was overturned, with the result that the sticky liquid spread over the lines until they were covered, rendering that part of the line impassable. It took a gang of men several hours to clear the track.

Detective Given Kiss For Returning Purse

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—When he handed her a pocket-book containing $671, which had been lost, Detective Allgood, although only the medium of the restoration, received a fervent embrace and kiss from Mrs. Hester A. Wyman, 75, in the presence of officers in local police headquarters. Dropped on a street car, the money turned up at headquarters, in the hands of an honest finder, within two hours.

CHINESE REVERE AND FEAR BANDIT

Secret Society, Religious, Wields Power Among Certain Orientals

By BERT L. KUHN
For International News Service.
SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 26.—

Organization of a secret society, along lines resembling intimately those employed by the Boxers in 1900, is reported by a missionary who has just returned from an extensive tour of the Province of Anhui.

Among residents of the province members of the society are known as bandits, and they have made raids on several towns; but in each instance their movements have been well organized and orderly, and where their demands have been met by local officials they have not resorted to looting.

Recently a party of about 800 of them came to the city of Linchow. The soldiers in charge of the gate fled, although the bandits were but scantily armed. Before fleeing, however, the soldiers locked and barred the city gates. The raiding party quickly set to work digging out bricks from the city wall until they had loosened the long crossbar which held one of the gates. They were then able to push the gate far enough open to enable them to squeeze in, one by one, and take possession of the city.

Exceedingly Religious
The men are described as exceedingly religious. While in Linchow they spent their time in idol worship, incense burning and with incantations, much like the Boxers of 1900. Their only demands on the local Chamber of Commerce were that they be furnished with a levy of $30,000 and that they be fed. The latter demand was quite easily met, for all of the members of the order are strict vegetarians.

When reinforcements of soldiers approached the city to drive out the bandits the latter marched forth to battle carrying with them into the fighting line their favorite idols. They were not defeated, but when they felt that military pressure was becoming too strong they withdrew, after holding the city for nineteen days. Later the same party appeared in the vicinity of Shucheng, about fifty miles south of Linchow. They sent ahead a man to announce their coming and to demand of the city officials that the public crier, or gong-beater, patrol the streets, advise the people of their coming and tell them that there was nothing to fear, as they intended no harm. They also asked that all of the people of the city shoot off firecrackers to welcome them.

All of this was done, and a deputation, composed of the head men of the city, was sent out to meet them. Unfortunately, however, this deputation took the wrong road and, failing to see the bandits, returned to the city. Shortly after its return the bandits appeared at the city gates. A conference was held. They demanded $10,000 and thirty rifles. These demands were refused, and they were forbidden to enter the city.

At this they became greatly incensed and attacked at two different gates of the city. The local garrison, however, put up a good defense, and the attackers suffered so many casualties that they finally gave up and withdrew.

Whether this secret organization of bandits is merely local, or has been extended to other parts of China is not known.

Synthetic Insulin Is Possible Doctor Says

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Discovery of the method of isolating the active element in insulin by Dr. Arthur Locke of St. Luke's hospital, ultimately will result in the manufacture of artificial or synthetic insulin so that this treatment for diabetic sufferers may be obtained much cheaper than at present, according to an announcement at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Julius Steiglitz, head of the department of chemistry, said that "positive progress has been made by Dr. Locke in obtaining more potent product from insulin," but added that it could not be predicted how much time may be required before artificial preparation of the product can be accomplished.

UNCLE SAM URGES STUDY IN BUYING

Nation-Wide Survey Made
For Retail Details
Of Meat Trading

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—With a view to educating young people how to buy meat, the government is conducting a nationwide survey of the retail meat business. Preliminary reports received by the department of agriculture indicate that consumers generally know less about differences in cuts and quality of meat than of any other commodity.

Most of the housewives interviewed by the government's investigators were able to mention only two or three steaks which they could recognize if cut, and the average number of roasts with which they were familiar was less than two.

Research studies of the department of agriculture of the methods, practices, costs and consumer buying habits in retailing meats have been made in the following fifteen widely separated cities and towns: New Haven, Conn.; Birmingham, N. Y.; Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D. C.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Birmingham, Ala.; New Orleans, La.; Cleveland, Lincoln, Neb.; Denver, Colo.; Salt Lake City, Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles, California.

Compulsory Study
"A large number of people engage in the retail meat business who have no conception of its requirements and who lack practical knowledge from an operating standpoint," the preliminary report says. "A compulsory apprenticeship period is proposed by many representative merchants to correct this situation."

The need of selling meat on the basis of grade, and for educational campaigns to acquaint consumers with the difference in cuts and quality, is also seen by leading retailers to prevent possible deception, substitution and misleading and untruthful advertising.

They believe that greater knowledge of comparative values of meats by the consumer would be beneficial to the trade.

WAY IS PAVED IN '24 FOR FUTURE

World-Wide Prosperity Is Forecast From Trend
In Year Past

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The year 1924 will be remembered principally because of its contributions to industrial and political factors making for stability and world wide prosperity in the future.

It was not a profitable year for many of the major industries of America, including the steel, copper and oil industries. It witnessed a violent reaction in industrial production and distribution in the early months and developed to a larger degree the habit of hand to mouth buying, which was such a handicap to business in the preceding year.

The year was attended by most of the uncertainties in business which accompany a presidential contest. Complications in the political situation were enhanced by the formation of a third party and the nation-wide discussions of the possibility of an election "thrown into the house" as a consequence of the failure of any presidential candidate to secure a majority vote.

Considerable uneasiness existed in foreign financial circles in the early part of the year because of the apparent inability of French and German political powers to agree on methods of making reparations payments, and conditions there were muddled until the Dawes plan was put into operation.

MAP BUILDER TO EXHIBIT MODELS

Glendale Artist Will Show
Relief Work at Lunch
Club's Gathering

Models of different pieces of his work which now occupy prominent public attention throughout America will be shown by J. T. Edwards, famous relief map maker of Glendale, at the next meeting of the Greater Glendale Luncheon club. The next meeting will be held at the Masonic temple, on Wednesday, December 31.

Mr. Edwards, who is owner of the J. T. Edwards studios here, built the huge relief map of California which now hangs in the Ferry building at San Francisco. He is engaged in the construction of a great replica of the world for exhibit at the Philadelphia exposition in 1926 and is the father of many other notable models.

The latest map to be planned by Mr. Edwards is one which will depict graphically the six thousand miles of motor highways in western America, from the Pacific coast to Denver and from Calgary, Alberta, to the Mexican border. The map will be designed to show how easily accessible by motor car the matchless scenic beauties of this territory are, and has been ordered by the National Park-to-Park Highway association of Denver, Colo.

Cornelius Sweeney of Los Angeles was knocked down in the street last night by a car driven by Pete Maya of 1253 South San Fernando road, according to a police report. He was taken to the Glendale hospital, where it was reported his injuries are not serious.

Overheated Chimneys Cause Two City Fires

Overheated chimneys caused two small fires over the holiday. At 8:35 o'clock Christmas eve the Glendale fire department was called to the home of Mrs. A. G. Hann, 314 East Colorado boulevard, to extinguish a fire in the chimney flue, and 7:50 o'clock Christmas morning the same type of blaze called the department to the residence of P. M. Jennings, 1251 South Maryland avenue. Chief A. H. Lankford reported damage negligible.

THIRTY-THREE DIE IN XMAS HOLOCAUST

Identify Victims of Fire at Oklahoma Schoolhouse;
Forty Injured

HOBART, Okla., Dec. 26.—With the list of identified dead placed at thirty-three, forty others in hospitals and homes, several of whom are expected to die, this community was preparing today for an inquiry into the Babb's school fire which turned Christmas eve from a night of joy to a night of horror.

One family of three thought to have attended the fatal exercises in the country school was found yesterday on their farm. They had not gone to the school house.

It was only this morning that actual figures from the injured in farm houses scattered over miles of countryside began to be tallied.

In Clever Role

RICHARD EHLERS, appearing in the current production, "I Love You," presented by the Robinson Players.

Those who enjoy a good, rollicking farce should not fail to see "I Love You," which the Robinson Players are presenting for the holiday season. These players are giving something to Glendale in the way of remarkable production, that is metropolitan in its achievement as can be attested by the audience which enjoyed the performance on Christmas night.

"I Love You" tells the story of a wealthy man who is weary of the conventional and horrifies his guests with the statement that there is no such thing as real love, and makes a wager with one of them that under the right environment any two people can be made to fall in love. In the working out of the scheme is a series of convoluted situations.

As Jimmie Farnsworth, Joseph McManus, who is the featured player, gives the finest kind of a performance, looks the part of the gentlemanly aristocrat he portrays, and keeps the right tempo until the final curtain. His sofa scene with Louise is a scream. William H. Stephens as Brooks, the butler, whose encyclopaedic mind is a source of bewilderment to the others, is a treat. Mary Isabelle Alpaugh as Ruth, Jimmie's fiancée, whose thoughts of love are far different than Jimmie's, helps to keep the audience in its merry mood.

TWELVE LIVES SNUFFED OUT IN FLOOD

Dam Breaks Sweeping Valley
With Alkali Refuse
On Christmas Eve

SALTVILLE, Va., Dec. 26.—Rescuers toiled today throughout thousands of tons of half-frozen muck, searching for victims in the Christmas eve tragedy that fell on this little community with the breaking of the dam at the Mathieson Alkali works and snuffing out a dozen or more lives. In the emergency hospital here are twelve bodies and 22 persons are missing.

The avalanche that swept down from the broken dam was mostly lime refuse. It was solid enough to sweep ahead of it in its path houses, fences, barns and vehicles. It was a sticky mass of slow-moving death.

Today the entire valley between the spot where the dam stood and the north-fork Holston river was covered with the half-frozen slush, varying in depth from a few feet to ten.

The dam stood high above the little valley, in which nestled a dozen homes. It consisted principally of refuse hardened by the passage of time, and no one had figured on its letting go. Behind this dam was a great accumulated mass of refuse, lime waste from the works, made heavier and soggy by recent rains. The rain started the stuff to "working" and the restless mass finally shoved through the dam into the valley, covering everything with a sticky, white layer of muck.

Known dead: Henry Prater and wife and son; James Prater and wife; W. H. Scott, Mrs. Luther Clear and son; Opal Pauley.

From all over the countryside came volunteer workers to spend their Christmas day giving aid to the injured and searching for the missing.

Pneumonia is feared in many cases now in the hospitals and doctors today said it was probable there would be more deaths. The work was carried on in the bitter cold. The exposure was great.

Australia now is enjoying its summer, and is happy over promises of big crops.

STATES' RIGHTS

The Constitution of the United States defines the jurisdiction of the federal government in the matter of legislation as distinguished from questions over which the separate states shall have control, and yet the matter of states' rights has always bothered the people more or less, and is still a national problem.

It is not wise that the federal government should have too much to say where the various states are concerned, for each state has its own conditions and its own problems, and these are not always understood or appreciated by our national lawmakers. And yet the lack of uniformity in the way the different states handle the same questions presents a problem that is growing increasingly complex.

Many people are demanding that the states shall continue to have the power to regulate child labor and contend that if the federal amendment is ratified it will interfere with the rights of the states. But the child labor laws, where such exist at all, are so diverse in the various states as to bring about unfair competition among manufacturers. The marriage and divorce laws in different states vary so greatly as to be ridiculous. A couple may be legally divorced in one state and find themselves still bound by marriage if they cross the line. In some states there are no laws against the marriage of mental defectives and other states set the ages at which girls and boys may marry at 12 and 14 respectively. A year ago the Nebraska legislature passed a law providing for a lapse of ten days between the application for a marriage license and its issuance, and Council Bluffs, Iowa, began to reap a harvest in license fees from eloping Nebraskans. Rigid divorce laws in one or two states make it necessary for those wishing to break the marriage bond to go to Reno or Paris if they are able. Rupert Hughes' satirical drama, "Reno," brought out the absurdity of the variation in the marriage and divorce laws and was a powerful argument for federal marriage and divorce legislation.

In many other instances we find the same diversity of laws in different states bearing on the same subject, a condition that makes for injustice as well as one that tends to create disrespect for law. What is a misdemeanor in one state may not be so in another, a situation that partly justifies the wrongdoer.

In the earlier days, when travel was not so general and communication was more difficult, this diversity in laws in different states was not so noticeable and did not present quite the same problem that it does today. But since our laws have become so numerous and life has become so complex it is certain that a number of questions which now seem to be matters for the separate states to consider will eventually, of necessity, become subjects for national legislation.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

At every holiday season we hear again the cry of those who would do away with the Christmas tree. A correspondent asks, "Why cut down so many fir trees when there are none to spare, why employ them for useless decoration? How much more beautiful the live tree on the hillside, growing in all its natural grace—in summer, glowing in its heavy green foliage; in winter, festooned in snowy garments—than the bedizened tree in a crowded room!"

The waste in cutting trees for Christmas is not so great as it may seem, for many branches are utilized and many of the small trees are cut where the growth is thick and where the thinning out is beneficial to the larger trees. But, if there is a waste, it is a waste that is entirely justifiable. The American Tree association, which is devoted to the conservation of the forests of the United States, has said that "conservation means proper use, and what better use can be made of a small tree than to bring joy to childhood?" And if anything in the world does bring joy to childhood it is the "bedizened tree in a crowded room." The Christmas tree is a national institution. Try to picture Christmas without any trees. The children would not be the only ones to suffer disappointment. Over against the denuded hillsides of which we hear so much, place the happiness that has been created by the Christmas tree, if you can, and the Christmas tree custom will seem entirely justifiable. The live tree growing on the hillside is a thing of beauty both in summer and winter, but so many of us never see it there. In millions of homes throughout America the children and their elders are still enjoying the gayly decorated Christmas tree and they will continue to enjoy it until the falling needles make it necessary to discard it. But that tree will have fulfilled its destiny, have been as useful and brought as much or more of joy to the world as its sister tree, still growing in the forest.

THE WAY TO PEACE

Senator William E. Borah is a great advocate of peace, and a firm believer in the possibility of outlawing war. In a debate with Robert Lansing, who declares that the only way to stop wars under present conditions is to remove as far as possible their causes and promote concord and good will among the nations, Senator Borah replies, "Is there any law upon the statute books which awaited its enactment for the removal of all causes of crime with which the law was intended to deal? Did we remove the cause of piracy before we outlawed it? Have we removed the causes of murder and theft? Certainly not. We pass laws that men may not push causes to the point of violence."

This argument contains much of logic, and yet we have not done away with murder and theft by outlawing them. It would seem that a combination of the theories of Lansing and Borah would be practical—outlaw war and at the same time work to remove the causes of war.

THOUGHTS AND DEEDS

Attention is called to the crudeness which characterizes the classification of our crimes. A criminal is punished according to the results of his act and not according to his intent, whereas it is the spirit and purpose behind his crime which constitute the menace to society. We have several degrees of murder, all depending upon the result, yet the man who attempts murder and fails is equally dangerous with one who succeeds. Social menace lies in the state of mind of the individual and of society rather than in specific deeds, and it is the act that this state of mind may produce in the future rather than the crime committed in the past that is of importance.

It is the spirit and purpose that count in criminal acts as well as in good deeds.

The Show-Off

By DR. FRANK CRANE

One way to tell a real aristocrat is that he does not like to show off.
He does not want anyone to think him wiser, better or more capable than he really is.

If you like to put your best foot forward, make a good impression, be flattered, have people think that you are wittier or more clever than you are, you have plenty of company. That is what the multitude wants along the broad way.

It is not that you are bad, it is only that you are common.
The exceptional man wants no such thing. He does not like to be over-praised. Flattery, when it is not deserved, does not tickle him; it humiliates him.

The right kind of man instinctively conceals his virtues, as his nudity. When his piety is discovered, he blushes. When he is elected to high office, it sober him. The most he gets out of riches is the sense of responsibility. If he wins fame as an artist, soldier, engineer or writer, it is hard for him to believe that it is not largely due to luck.

Even as your praise cannot find him, so your blame cannot swerve him.

The right kind of man is his own audience. He does things to satisfy himself and not other people.

When you find the typical show-off that is always playing to the galleries you have a low order of man.

For the most of the people are always doing this. Most people do not want to be able to play the violin, they want to have people think they can play it. They do not want to write good stuff, they want to have people think they can. The right kind of a man aims at doing good work. The wrong kind of man aims at having people think that he can do it. One looks at the thing done, the other looks at the reward.

TO LUCASTA, ON GOING TO THE WARS

Tell me not, Sweet, I am unkinder
That from the nursery
Of thy chaste breast and quiet mind
To war and arms I fly.

True, a new mistress now I chase,

And with a stronger faith embrace
A sword, a horse, a shield.

Yet this inconstancy is such
As you, too, shall adore;

EXPANSION IS INCREASING IN LUMBER

Pacific Northwest Look to Large Tracts; South to Back Small Mills

By J. C. ROYLES
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Roads of destiny in the lumber industry have branched. The Pacific northwest is developing its lumber tracts in the direction of greater acreages, larger mills and quantity production. The southern pine states are staving off a decrease in production by developing small mills and by going over cutover lands. Each section expects the continuation of strong demand throughout 1925 and is preparing for it.

Expansion in lumber operations far exceeding anything that has been known in years, is indicated in the Pacific northwest. There have been recently tremendous purchases of the growth timber and tracts have been opened to logging which hold as much as a billion feet of Douglas fir and red cedar. A sale of 750,000 feet of old growth timber in Oregon by Seattle interests to a Kansas City concern which already holds two billion feet in western Oregon, has just been announced. The price is understood to have been about $2,000,000.

Recent financing of logging and saw mill expansion in the northwestern states by means of bond issues has aggregated more than $12,000,000. One Oregon concern has announced that a billion foot tract will be opened to operations next year. This involves the building of twenty-one miles of standard gauge railroad, the establishment of towns and camps, the importation of many thousand dollars worth of machinery and the employment of thousands of men. The contract for building the railroad already has been let.

Production Grows
The production of southern pine since 1919 shows that the annual output of that grade of lumber and timber today exceeds that of five years ago. This was contrary to all predictions of foresters, lumbermen and other experts who claimed only a few years ago production of southern pine was declining rapidly. They figured that the 15,822,000,000 feet manufactured in 1919 would have shrunk to 13,913,000,000 by this year. As a matter of fact the latest figures forecast a cut of 16,000,000,000 feet.

A number of large mills have acquired additional lumber in the south since 1919 thereby increasing their lives by one to ten years but this factor now has been eliminated as practically all timber available for large mill operations has been bought up. Some mills however have gone over their cutover lands which they had no intention of recutting until the recent demand developed.

"The chief factor in the increased production today," a report of the Southern Pine association says, "has been the activity of wholesalers and planing mill operators in organizing and financing small mill production." This has caused a great expansion of small mills in the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and northern Mississippi. The move has been aided by good roads, the use of the auto truck, the failure of the cotton crop, which made much wood lot stumpage available. And a persistent demand for cheaply manufactured lumber in the north Atlantic and great lakes markets.

Plan For Future
The southern experts declare the gleaming process will continue for a number of years. In Georgia the amount of "roofers" cut in agricultural districts in recent years has been extraordinary and it is anticipated this kind of production in Georgia will decline by 75 per cent in the next three years in consequence, although the decline will be more gradual in the long leaf belt.

The wholesalers in South Carolina think by backing small mill operations they can get timber for their mills for five or six years more, by which time the haul to the planer would make operations unprofitable. The present average haul is ten miles. There still remains much timber in Alabama available for small mill operations, a considerable amount of which is virgin. It may be three years before a decline in small mill operations in that state is noticeable.

Lumber manufacturers are not worrying about a slackening in building. They expect an active market so long as the farmers have money to pay for sorely needed repairs and replacements.

Half of Germany's recent imports of nickel originated in this country and half in Great Britain.

Four National Parks Located In California

California is the most fortunate state in the United States with relation to national parks, national monuments and national forests, according to the touring bureau of the Automobile Club Southern California. Of the nineteen national parks in the United States, Hawaii and Alaska, California has four. It has two national monuments, one of which is the largest in the United States with 91,000 acres. It has seventeen national forests having a total of 19,000,000 acres.

In addition to this magnificent area of scenic grandeur of its own, Southern California is adjacent to the Grand Canyon in Arizona, and Zion National park in Utah.

COMMENT
by GIL A. COWAN

Events of sadness—a death toll of sixty in the United States—marked Christmas day throughout the world, but particularly did the bomb outrage committed on Attorney Ernest M. Torcia of Casa Verdugo sadden the glad-some spirit of this vicinity.

As told in "The News" columns today, he opened a Christmas package, perhaps never to realize that some fiend had perpetrated the trick of the Mafia upon him. An internal machine exploded, immediately doing injury that may prove fatal.

Citizens of Glendale should unite in offering a reward for the apprehension of the dastardly villain who so violated the principles of Christianity in turning a Christmas package into a deadly bomb.

Unless severe justice is pursued in this instance, there will be no safety, no assurance, in tokens received by the populace. Police, sheriff's deputies and postal investigators should be given every encouragement to ferret out the perpetrator of such a crime.

Slaying and suicide made Christmas a sad day for many people, but the Christmas trees in two southern communities where more than two score people lost their lives, call attention to the danger of sheer carelessness on someone's part.

Two hundred people were packed in a little schoolhouse at Babb Switch, Ok., and in a fire there fathers fought fathers in vain endeavors to escape the blazing inferno. One door choked with human bodies. Windows screened against hail prevented escape. It is a pitiful lesson that fire prevention experts will have to teach to parents of schools, churches, theatres and other meeting places.

There are hazards in Glendale, particularly of public halls. People cannot deny themselves the pleasure of attending meetings, but authorities can insist on plenty of exits, cleared aisles and preventing the overcrowding of second and third-story rooms.

As the old year draws to a close it is necessary to urge builders to bring forth all permits possible to keep Glendale in rank with its 1923 construction record. A few thousand dollars may mean that this city will show a decrease in building.

Considering conditions, the record to date has been excellent and Glendale has gained much publicity from its continued achievement. However, where the opportunity exists to shove up the total for the year the advantage should be gained during the five days now left to record building permits.

Two score new homes, three or four apartment houses, one or two store buildings, a church and a factory building will turn the trick.

Put Glendale over the top!

Irrigation for 3000 acres of Owens valley land is guaranteed ranchers there by a committee of the Public Service department in an effort to end the dispute over Los Angeles aqueduct water, it is reported at the city hall today.

Freezing of several water hydrants in the hills of Los Angeles' outskirts was reported today as a result of the cold snap. Firemen were kept busy during the last forty-eight hours answering calls of minor consequence.

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

CHAPTER IV

"The most serious part of it is that it's the truth," Grant rejoined drily. "However, the first stage in the battle has been won. The invitation has been dispatched to Washington. Now I tell you where the second stage of the battle begins and where America will need the aid of every one of her loyal citizens. There will be, without the slightest doubt, an immense and cunningly engineered propaganda to prevent America's accepting that invitation. I want to fight that propaganda, Daniel. I want you to help me."

The editor sat back in his chair and his thoughtful grey eyes studied Grant's face. He was a short man, clean-shaven, with smooth black hair streaked with grey. Whenever any one wished to annoy him they called him the Napoleon of journalism. Still the likeness was there.

"Who were the three votes against the invitation being sent to America?" he enquired.

"Germany, Japan, and Russia."

"And the one which would have been given but for your intervention?"

"Scandinavia," Grant replied. "That of course has no political significance. It was simply that the man himself was bought."

"And what do you suppose is the reason for Germany and Japan voting against the United States being allowed to join the Pact?" Stoneham asked.

"I believe it is their intention to attack us," Grant pronounced. "The Pact only forbids aggression between the countries belonging. She has no jurisdiction even over her own members who find cause of a quarrel with an outside country. We've been a little too high and mighty, Stoneham. If we'd decided to adopt the attitude of remaining outside the affairs of the world, we should never have subscribed to the Limitation of Armaments. Today, for all our great wealth, our supreme civilization, the combined armaments of Japan and Germany are precisely double our own."

"Of course," Stoneham said. "If any other man in the world were to come to me and talk like this, I should say that he was a lunatic."

"I am no lunatic, Dan," Grant declared. "I know very well what I am about."

"Have you any proofs?"

"I sent them to Washington an hour after I landed. You don't need them, Dan. You believe me, I know."

"Yes, I believe you."

"And you'll help? You'll put that in the forefront of your whole policy, the acceptance by the United States of this invitation from the Pact? You'll press it home to the people, Dan? Remember, it's our last chance. We've refused twice."

Stoneham was curiously silent. He was looking for a moment out of the uncurtained window, away over the skyscrapers and chimney pots to where little flashes of the blue Hudson, with its tangle and burden of sea and river-going craft, were visible. There was something smouldering in his eyes.

"Grant," he said at last, "you've brought me news. I have some to give you. In a way, although I never realized it before, my news bears upon yours."

"Get along with it," Grant begged.

"A commanding interest in this paper—three-quarters of the shares in fact—was signed away last night. The control of the paper has gone out of our hands altogether."

"Who is the buyer?" Grant demanded eagerly.

"Felix Pottinger," was the quiet reply.

"And who's behind him?"

"They tried to keep that secret. But I found out by an accident. The real buyer is Cornelius Blunn of Berlin."

Grant was thunderstruck. "Fifteen days ago," he confided after a brief silence, "I was a guest at a dinner party given by that man. A few days before that we were scrapping on my yacht. He tried to start a mutiny. Offered ten thousand pounds to some of my youngsters to get the yacht back in time for his Scandinavian friend to vote at the Nice Conference. Blunn and I have had the gloves off all the time. He sent some one down from Berlin to spy on me at Monte Carlo. My God! This comes of our hospitality to foreigners. This is where we make a laughing stock of ourselves for all the world. Cornelius Blunn! The German multi-millionaire! The man who hates America, her industries and her politics, is calmly allowed to come here and buy the only great American newspaper which represents no

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"I Love You," now showing nightly at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, is proving one of the most popular plays yet offered by the Dobinson Players. The plot deals with the wager of a millionaire that love is merely a matter of propinquity. The developments of this comedy idea are highly amusing. The curtain rises 8:15 o'clock.

Joseph McManus, a well known eastern actor, is the featured player. He is supported by a cast including many favorite Dobinson artists. The author of the piece is William Le Baron, who has written numerous successful plays.

Holiday audiences will find "I Love You" just the right sort of a play for the season. It is light, sparkling and merry, with a rapid-fire sequence of mirthful situations. As an overture, a special orchestration of the popular song "I Love You" from which the author drew his inspiration, has been arranged by the Dobinson Players.

THE GLENDALE

"Young Ideas," featuring Laura La Plante, opens today at the Glendale Theatre.

Other interests save those of America.

"There is a certain amount of irony in the situation," Stoneham admitted. "You know what happened, I dare say. The chief, after fifteen years of wisdom, went to Wall Street a few months ago. He lost between five and ten millions and had a stroke. I suppose this will just see him through."

"I thought the old man wouldn't have done it if he'd been himself," Grant muttered. "I suppose I'd better go and see Dawson."

"You'll have a hard nut to crack. I heard Dawson speak only last night at a dinner. His references to the invitation were very perfunctory indeed. He's one of the men who believe in America for the Americans."

"You needn't look so depressed, though. What about me? I shall be out of a job within a week."

"Come and have some lunch?" Grant invited.

Stoneham shook his head. "I guess not. We're all in a state of nerves here. Waiting to hear what's going to happen. The sale seems to have been a lightning-affair. We're expecting a visit from Pottinger any min-

THE T. D. & L.

"The Snob," featuring Conrad Nagel, opens today at the T. D. & L. Theatre.

Shouldn't be surprised if he takes us over within twenty-four hours."

"Couldn't you get an article in?" Grant suggested.

"I'll try," Stoneham assented. "Where are you?"

"The Great Central. They're getting my flat ready at Sherrey's if I stay on. Things seem a trifle uncertain at present."

"I'll ring you up," Stoneham promised.

Grant lunched at his club, where he met many of his friends and acquaintances to whom he was simply a rather restless, much to be envied millionaire. Whenever he could, he brought the subject of conversation round to the Nice invitation. To a certain extent he was dismayed by the prevalent criticisms.

"Guess there's no one in the world so thick-skinned as a Britisher," one man declared. "You can't keep him in his place unless you tie him there. What does America want, sending her best men away from home and spending time and money on these wearisome conferences? They don't amount to anything, anyway."

"England's got a scare about something or other and wants to hold her big relation's hand," another usually well-informed man remarked. "For all their strength, there was never a less self-reliant nation."

"It's just like English statesmanship to make it difficult for them down in Washington," a third occupant of the room pointed out. "It simply puts our government in an embarrassing situation. Nobody wants to seem ungracious, and it won't be easy to say no. At the same time, I can't see that a shadow of good can come of acceptance. They're always squabbling at the Pact meetings, like they are at the Limitation of Armaments. The latest canard now is that Japan has secretly built some flying ships that could destroy any fleet afloat."

"Grant remained a listener only. He left the club about the middle of the afternoon, and after a few minutes' anxious deliberation, was driven to the Hotel des Ambassadeurs.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SUSIE'S DOLL

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping along through the woods, looking for an adventure, he passed the burrow, or underground house, where Sammie and Susie Littlelail, the rabbit children, lived.

"I think I'll stop here and see if either of the children want to take an adventure hop with me this morning," said Mr. Longears to himself.

Sammie had gone across the field to try his new Christmas skates with some of the boys, but Susie was in the burrow.

"Come along, Susie," cried Uncle Wiggily. "We'll go adventuring this fine day after Christmas."

"All right, thank you. But wait a minute. I want to take one of my dolls with me," Susie answered.

She darted back into the burrow and soon she came up smiling and said:

"Come along now, Uncle Wiggily, I'm ready."

"But I thought you said you wanted to take one of your dolls with you, Susie," spoke the bunny uncle.

"I have one. Here she is," laughed Susie, and she opened the pocket of her warm fur coat, and showed Uncle Wiggily the cutest, tiny little doll you can imagine. But she had on a real dress, the doll did, and she had blue eyes and golden curls and everything.

"Oh, but what a little doll," said Uncle Wiggily.

"She is little," admitted Susie, "but she is very cute and she isn't very expensive for clothes. I can make over some of the old dresses off my big dolls for this new little one. And listen!"

Susie pushed her little doll gently in the back where there was a spring, and a little voice about as large as half a penny-cry.

"Mamma! Mamma! Mamma!"

"Wonderful," laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"She has a little phonograph inside," explained Susie. Then she put her doll back in her pocket and she and Uncle Wiggily hopped to the woods adventuring. But they had not gone very far before, all of a sudden, Susie cried:

"Oh, my little Christmas doll is gone. She's lost."

"She must have dropped out of your pocket," said Uncle Wiggily. "She dropped the leaves, I guess. Come, we'll look for her."

So Susie and Uncle Wiggily began kicking the leaves about, looking for the lost doll, and while they were doing this, out of the bushes popped the bad Bob Cat.

"Meow! Mew!" howled the Bob Cat. "What are you two looking for in the leaves? I know. It's something good to eat—it must be a piece of Christmas cake you dropped. Well, I'll look for it and I'll find it and I'll nibble you."

Then the Bob Cat began kicking about in the dried leaves, and all of a sudden, he stepped on Susie's little doll which had fallen to the ground.

"Mamma! Mamma! Mamma!" cried the doll, for the Bob Cat had stepped on her back at the place where the spring must be pushed to start the phonograph. "Mamma! Mamma!" cried the doll.

"Oh, my goodness! That must be my little baby Bob Cat crying for me!" howled the big Bob Cat, who, of course, knew nothing about talking dolls. "I'll have to go to my little Bob Cat," said the big bad chap. "But I'll come back and nibble you soon."

"Well, you won't find us here!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as the Bob Cat leaped away. "Come, Susie, now your doll is found, we'll go!" So Susie picked up her doll, whose voice the Bob Cat thought was his own little Bob Cat crying in the den, and back home the two bunnies hopped, safe and sound. And when the Bob Cat reached the den, the baby Bob Cat was sound asleep. Now if the pussy cat doesn't scratch a match and burn a hole in the Swiss cheese, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Jackie's gun.

Will Gland Discovery Make Us a Race of Wonder Men?

Recent wonders that have been worked by gland "magic" lead science to believe we shall soon become a race of wonder men.

Recent press dispatches tell of one scientist who has observed great benefits in 1500 cases under treatment; of another leading physician who reports success in 9 cases out of ten, with records kept of over 1000 patients taking the glandular treatment. Men from 35 to 73 years of age have regained youthful vigor, strength and "pep" to such an extent that they can perform athletic feats that would put to shame many a young man of twenty.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Glandogen, for men and women, is obtainable at Ahlman Drug Co. Phone orders accepted.—Advertisement.

GOLD MEDAL FOR BEST SCREEN ART

Rudolph Valentino Announces Annual Award; Public To Pick Winner

By MARIAN MARSHALL
For Southland News Service.
HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 26.—This is the result of the "Christmas spirit". Rudolph Valentino announced today that he would present each year a handsome gold medal to the motion picture actor or actress who gives the best performance of the year.

Decision will be made by the critics of the leading newspapers, fan magazines and trade papers. They will be asked to vote for the first three performances in order of preference. Every player will be eligible with the exception of Mr. Valentino.

Rupert Hughes, director-novelist and Rob Wagner, president of the Writers' club, have consented to serve on a committee with Mr. Valentino in taking the poll. They will express no opinion themselves, but will merely seek the nation's best critical opinion.

To Create Interest
The pool for the best performance of 1924 will be taken as soon as the last reel of the old year has been run off. The award will be known as the Rudolph Valentino Medal for Screen Acting.

"My purpose is to evoke more general interest in the art of screen acting and to bestow public honor on the actor or actress who has contributed the most notable character for the old year," said Mr. Valentino, who is now an independent producer-star, making his pictures under the Ritz banner. He is now at work on "Cobra," the great New York stage success, at the United Studios.

No, Norah! Rudolph will not award the gold medal to himself!

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Dec. 26.—The 1925 program of telephone expansion for the Garfield district, involving the expenditure of $1,075,000, is announced by W. H. Schultz, district manager of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. The district, which includes Eagle Rock, will be greatly benefited by this improvement. Mr. Schultz states. There are 7500 telephones in the district now. When the new Garfield exchange is completed, it will serve 60,000 telephones.

The site of the new building is on the northwest corner of Meridian street and North avenue 56, having frontage of 150 feet on Meridian and 126 feet on the avenue. The building will be three stories of Class "A" fireproof construction, 77 feet by 106 feet in area. It will be of flexible design to permit of extensions readily being made, and is to be framed for four additional stories. The cost of the lot and building are said to be approximately $250,000.

The Professional and Business Women's club will meet twice a month, beginning January 8. It has been decided. Physical education will be conducted at each meeting by Miss Patey, who has been voted director in charge of this work.

Harry S. Bourne has been elected worshipful master of the local Masonic lodge, recently installed in its new home on Eagle Rock boulevard. The following staff will serve with Mr. Bourne during 1925: Aea O. Arnold, senior warden; C. E. Spencer, junior warden; H. W. Baly, treasurer; Arthur E. Warren, chaplain; L. A. Patterson, senior deacon; R. H. Cates, junior deacon; R. L. McNitt, marshal; Arthur L. Clark, senior steward; N. R. Rogers, junior steward; E. H. Fisher, organist; John S. Stewart, tyler.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Dec. 26.—Construction of the new Druids' home on Magnolia avenue is under way. The building will cost $14,500 when completed. In honor of the event officers of the Druids' Holding Co., which is putting up the building, gathered recently at the scene and had their pictures taken, together with the contractor, Mr. Johnson. The officers whose likenesses will be thus preserved in the archives, in connection with this important event in the history of the Burbank lodge, are: P. Romeo, president; Hubert B. Wolf, vice-president; W. S. Farman, secretary; T. E. Hurd, treasurer; and Robert Ross, director. The other directors are Curt Miller and J. Alligire.

The Burbank Chamber of Commerce will move its headquarters to 162 Olive avenue, it was decided at the last meeting. The removal will be accomplished prior to the end of the year.

Two Burbank men "walked the hot sands" at the recent Al Mahkiah Shrine ceremonial held at the Hotel Ambassador, Los Angeles. They were E. H. Christensen and J. Blackburn.

A big impetus was given the newly organized Burbank lodge, No. 1497, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at the last regular meeting when fifty candidates for membership were voted upon favorably.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Hicks of 508 Tujunga avenue are in Lebec for the holidays, at the home of Mrs. Hicks' mother, Mrs. J. D. Cuddy.

Mrs. Nettie Hyder of Long Beach is visiting here with Mrs. Alice Hoffman at the Atherton villa. She will remain a week longer.

LEGION NOTES

National Commander James A. Drain of the American Legion will be welcomed to California next week by a special committee of the most prominent ex-service men in the state composed of Major John R. Quinn, former national commander and the marshall, General Drain succeeded; former state commanders, Buron R. Pitts and James F. Collins; George J. Hatfield, national executive committee; State Commander Nathan F. Coombs; E. President Coolidge's approval in large part of the legislative program of the American Legion, expressed in his annual message to Congress, is expected to have great weight in securing favorable action by Congress upon the various measures sponsored by the Legion, according to word received by State Commander Nathan F. Coombs.

The more important measures proposed by the Legion are universal service bill for conscription of men, money and materials in case of war; a bill for retiring disabled emergency army officers; liberalizing army pensions to the Reed-Johnson bill for disabled; and amendments to the adjusted compensation bill making it possible for a veteran to assign his rights to any patriotic organization chartered by Congress.

Fakers claiming to be war veterans are taking advantage of the people of California again in the sale of "fake" magazines and other articles of no value according to a warning sent out by Department Adjutant James K. Fisk, who asks that the public refrain from purchasing from these so-called veterans as the legion is trying to secure the passage of a new law preventing the misuse of the veterans.

Dr. John F. Slavich of Oakland post of the American Legion, chairman of the Legion's Child Welfare committee for California, has organized his committee consisting of prominent Legionnaires from all parts of the state for work among the war orphans. The committee will handle the adoption in families of veterans' orphans, the assignment of adjusted compensation claims to the national fund of the legion to be used in rehabilitation and children's bills.

Organization of a new work in the American Legion, that of a committee on penal institutions to study the problems of handling the rehabilitation of ex-service men who get into prison is announced by the state headquarters of the legion, George Miller, former vice-commander of the legion in California is chairman of

CARDINALS TRAIN HARD FOR IRISH

Pop Warner Getting Men In Shape for Contest on New Year's Day

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 26.—With less than a week remaining before the New Year's game against the University of Notre Dame, in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, "Pop" Warner is working his Cardinal eleven hard every day.

Stanford's stock took quite a boost when Ernie Nevers, star fullback, took part in his first scrimmage in more than a month. The big boy is still favoring his injured ankle, but he looked to be more nearly in his old-time form than he has been at any time this year. Nevers' biggest asset in the game against the Irish will undoubtedly be his defensive work. He is one of the greatest fullbacks in the country at backing up the line. If his bad ankle continues to improve and he is not hurt again, he has a very good chance to be in the lineup January 1.

The Cardinal squad will board the "Lark" at Palo Alto Saturday night and will arrive in Pasadena Sunday morning. "Pop" has planned to have three workouts in the Rose Bowl—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—to give his men the "feel" of the turf and put them in the best possible shape for the game.

Seats All Sold

With Rockne's Ramblers already on their way to the Pacific coast, interest in the greatest inter-sectional contest ever held on this slope is at its height. The Stanford ticket department, at its Pasadena headquarters, has established what is thought to be a record in the sale of tickets. Fifty-two thousand seats, the capacity of the Rose Bowl, were sold in sixteen days. More than half of them were applied for before they were off the press.

There will be no temporary seats put in for the game. According to an announcement from the head of the ticket department, engineers advised against such a move. Only 20,000 additional seats could have been constructed and it was decided that, for the convenience of the 52,000 original purchasers, the project would be abandoned.

The officials for the game are as follows: Referee, Ed. Thorpe, Columbia; umpire, E. C. Quigley, Kansas; head linesman, Walter Eckersall, Chicago; field judge, R. Morris, Washington.

CROSS WORDS GET VILLAGERS' GOAT

Mental Rebels and 'Reds' Find Relaxation In Puzzle Sport

By WILLIAM PARKER
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—America now may slumber contentedly at night, for there is no likelihood of a Communist outbreak in the United States. That is if the cross-word puzzles hold out.

Ask any "parlor pink" in Greenwich Village, New York's rendezvous for mental rebels, how Communism is coming on in America. "Communism? Communism?" He will mumble abstracted, as he continues to pore over the black and white squares.

"Communism? A word of nine letters meaning anarchy."

That's all the thought the Village reds are giving to the movement that has shackled Russia and annoyed Foreign Secretary Chamberlain of England and Premier Herriot of France.

Artists, authors and the intelligentsia generally of the Village all have become cross-word puzzle "addicts." If you want verification of this just drop in any evening at the Pirates' Den—blood-thirsty only in its mural decorations—the Red Head, the Jolly Priars or Romany Marie's. But drop in early if you desire to be served with food, for you will find the waiters studiously engrossed with the patrons over the latest cross-word puzzle in the evening paper.

Cross-Word Riot
Police were summoned to quell a riot a few nights ago, a cross-word puzzle riot in one of the Village cafes. When harmony was restored it was learned that an English patron had brought in a London paper containing a cross-word puzzle. The English, with their flair for originality, have improved on the American form. So this new customer loudly challenged any cross-word puzzle expert present to solve the puzzle he had. A hardy American accepted the challenge. What brought on the riot is best described in the dialogue between the two investigators and the burly Irish patron who quelled the disturbance.

"How," asked the American indignantly, "can you expect anybody to keep from fighting when he reads anything like this in a cross-word puzzle? A beheaded snowstorm in six letters?"

"What have you to say to that?" the patron asked the Englishman.

Exonerated

Excruciatingly simple," replied the Englishman. "A beheaded snowstorm in six letters is

Not Demonstrative Enough

DUGEY, who helped the Boston Braves to win a world's championship in 1914 by copying the signals of the opponents, has been let out by the Cubs because he can't make enough noise while coaching on the side lines. He started baseball down in the Texas league.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

When the wonderful sport of the Boston Braves in 1924 which carried them to a National League pennant and a world's championship is recalled the "Miracle" efforts of Manager George Stallings in directing that climb and the sterling pitching of Tyler, James and Rudolph are mentioned first.

The part that Oscar Ducey played in that sensational climb from last to first place probably has been forgotten by most fans—if they ever knew of it.

It is dragged from the archives, however, by the recent action of the Chicago Cubs in opening wide the front office door and handing Oscar his cheques.

While Ducey had been serving under a player's contract he was employed in the role of coach. One reason given for his release is that the club wishes to replace him on the player list with an active player. Another reason given is that he is not demonstrative enough in his coaching tactics during a game—coaching on the sidelines being a part of his duties.

Ducey wasn't very demonstrative with the Braves back in 1914. He made very little noise while stealing most of the signals that the National League opponents tried to flash around the field and that the once mighty athletics wig-wagged about while going down to defeat in four consecutive battles in the world's series that followed.

But "he saw his duty and he did it."

Ducey had only been in professional ball a year when he joined the Braves at the close of the 1913 season via the draft route from the Waco Texas league club. He had played second base around his home town of Palestine, Texas five feverish seasons. With the Braves he acquired the rep of being a sure though not a fast fielder. Any shackle that touched his hands might just as well have been in a bank vault as far as chances of its getting away were concerned.

When Johnny Evers and Fred Mitchell wandered from the Braves to the Cubs several seasons ago they coaxed the Cub bosses to hire Ducey. Later Killefer, on taking the reins, kept him in the same role.

Ducey probably will not drop out of the big time as a result of the hear-say the Cubs gave him. Half a dozen big league clubs can use a capable coach and Oscar still carries around in his system the ability to play an infield berth in an emergency.

An airplane service now connects Prague, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Bucharest, Angora and Constantinople.

I-Z-Z-A-R-D—blizzard, you know a beheaded snowstorm. Haw! Haw! Haw!

"Ye are exonerated," said the patrolman to the American.

Even Romany Marie's handsome husband, who has such a fine head of curly black hair, is a victim of the rage. He used to write so fervently too, on his conception of what were international injustices. An he used to demand of every patron who came in: "What do you thing of the oppression in Europe now?"

Time and Romany Marie's husband, indeed, have changed. Push open the squeaking doors on Romany Marie's quaint tea shop any time nowadays. The husband still is there, but it is a far, far different question he will propound to you.

"What, he will ask, with all the semblance of his old-time fervor, 'is a word of four letters meaning a fish without hips?'"

LONG PASSES WIN IN GRID CONTEST

U. S. C. Defeats Missouri 20-7 by Aerial Work In Xmas Game

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—The superiority of the long pass over the short one on a dry playing field resulted yesterday in the smashing victory by the University of Southern California team over the football squad from the University of Missouri. It was declared today by experts, who had carefully analyzed the plays by which a score of 20 to 7 was rolled up against the visitors.

Both teams placed great faith on passing to gain yardage, and each resorted almost exclusively to the variety favored in its own part of the country.

Long Distance Toss
Missouri used the short pass, in which the eastern and middle western teams are said to specialize in preference to the longer throws, more popular on the coast.

On the other hand, Southern California placed its dependence upon long distance tosses, some of which were made for 45 yards, and successfully received. At another time, Newran, sensational Indian halfback with the U. S. C. eleven, made a 55-yard pass that was caught by Badgro, who romped over the goal unmolested.

WATER SHORTAGE SEEN BY EXPERT

Former Reclamation Chief Says Nation Faces Such Problem

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 26.—What to do for water is one of the rapidly approaching problems for the nation to face, in the opinion of Frederick H. Newell, former chief of the federal reclamation service, as expressed before members of Yale Forestry school here. "The time is coming," said Mr. Newell, "when it will be necessary to apportion the amount of water to be used in drinking and for household uses before industries are permitted to take any for manufacturing or other purposes."

Not lack of rain, but insufficient control of rainfall is the trouble. Our rainfall remains comparatively constant," said Mr. Newell. "It is only as we change its distribution by removal of forests, or contaminate streams by dumping waste, that a shortage of water ensues."

Under Federal law, navigation once had the first call in the use of water. Nowadays, according to Mr. Newell, the use of water is ranked thus: Drinking, raising crops, removal of waste, industrial water power, navigation and recreation.

Great Britain's coal mines employ 1,200,000 men, the gas works 150,000 and power plants 100,000.

RAILWAY STATION COST 60 MILLIONS

Epoch In Railway Terminal Building Left for Chicago People

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—A new epoch in railway terminal development will mark the opening of the sixty-million-dollar Chicago Union station on or about February 15. Spreading out over a larger and larger area, the gray-limestone terminal has continued to grow until, in its massive style of architecture, it resembles an imposing temple of antiquity. From atop the bridges spanning the Chicago river it stands out like a new city.

When the completed terminal swings open under auspicious ceremonies, the ancient terminal building will be quickly demolished. The whole transformation, including all work on the new terminal, will have been carried out without interference with a single train. This is just one phase of the unusual engineering skill.

Immense Waiting Room
Three baseball diamonds could be laid out upon the great floor of the main waiting room. The concourse building will have a fifteen-acre roof of glass, extending 1400 feet beyond the main structure, to form the train shed. Steel umbrellas, are almost finished. Several months ago most of the exterior, made of blocks from Indiana's quarries, had been virtually completed.

Parts of the terminal are now in operation, and other sections are being put into use as rapidly as possible. It had been hoped to climax the ten-year undertaking by opening the station Christmas Day as a "Santa Claus gift to the city."

But the date was found premature.

BERLENBACH AND ESTRIDGE TO BOX

Fast Battle Predicted When Pair Meet Tonight at Madison Square

By SID MERCER
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Any time a matchmaker ribs up a "natural" that has the sidewalk oracles guessing, he has an attraction that needs no supplementary publicity to make it popular with boxing fans.

When Frank Flourney hooked up Paul Berlenbach and Larry Estridge several weeks ago and selected a holiday date at Madison Square garden for their long awaited quarrel, he stuffed a valuable Christmas present in Tex Rickard's Christmas stocking.

No ordinary attraction could coax customers to the box office the day after Christmas, but it looks as if Berlenbach and Estridge will pack them tonight. Mixed bouts—long taboo at the garden—are now quite the fashion.

Although the wisecracks are guessing, Berlenbach has been installed as a favorite because of his weight advantage and the crushing power of his punches. Estridge has the speed, however. The division of weight has much to do with the odds on Berlenbach down to 6 to 5, but as yet no strong movement of "wise money" has been indicated.

Perhaps Berlenbach's greatest advantage is in the fact that tonight he will be a light heavy-weight fighting a middleweight. Paul has abandoned his ambition to become middleweight champion and is now appearing at a natural fighting weight of about 170 pounds.

BARNYARD GOLF IS WOMAN'S PASTIME

Female Horse Shoe Tossers To Enter Tournament Next Year

LAKE WORTH, Fla., Dec. 26.—Women from time immemorial have instilled fear in the hearts of men with rolling pins, hair pins, and other articles of domestic use, but it remained for Mrs. C. A. Lanham of Bloomington, Ill., an unassuming diminutive "south west" and the modest holder of six of eight women's championship horse shoe tossing records, to frighten sturdy male exponents of "barnyard golf" with a pair of horse shoes.

Mrs. Lanham, who holds the women's horse shoe tossing championship of the world, will again enter the men's professional class in the National Mid-Winter Horse Shoe Tossing tournament at Lake Worth, Florida, in February. Her announcement has been followed by protests from men contenders in all parts of the country.

Enviied Record
Close followers of the horse shoe game believe that Mrs. Lanham can win one of the first three places in any men's national meet. It seems possible after observing her list of world's records for women pitchers, which follow:

1. 77 per cent ringers in one 50-point game.
2. 56 per cent ringers in six 50-point games.
3. 32 ringers—the largest number made in one game by one player.
4. 11 double ringers—the largest number made in one game by one player.
5. 5 double ringers in a session—the largest number made in one game by one player.
6. 16 double ringers—the largest number made by two players in one 50-point game.

Indian Collection Over Forty Years Is Looted

BERWICK, Pa., Dec. 26.—The collection of Indian relics of Samuel C. Jayne, one of the best in the state, has been broken up by thieves, destroying the fruits of more than forty years' work. Mr. Jayne began early in the 80s to make the collection, which consisted of pottery, arrowheads and tomahawks found along the river valley in this section.

The collection was kept in a building near his home, and when he went to look at it he discovered most of it had been taken by thieves.

Peddler Makes Fortune On 'Life Saving' Fluid
ROME, Dec. 26.—In a dark red liquid sold in tiny bottles, Frank Marby, an English peddler, declared he had a cure for all diseases. He attracted large crowds to his street lectures and grew moderately wealthy on the sales of his medicine.

Police arrested him when they found the bottles to contain merely a popular soft drink, with a dash of pepsin.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Well, Xmas is over. Other things to worry about now, including what motion stars intend doing New Year's. They all stayed home with their mothers yesterday, contrary to previous intentions of rolling in snow banks around Big Bear lake and generally roughing it. It was thought better publicity to let the world know they stayed at home with mother. Don't believe any of them have fathers. If they have he didn't get any more credit for being at home Xmas than senator's secretary does for being in Washington.

Now is the time all good men should get ready to make those New Year resolutions. They don't mean anything but that's the kind of intentions that worry Americans most—the kind that don't mean anything.

All Hollywood bootleggers report good business over Xmas. They expect better results and more deaths after New Year's. Had some trouble getting stuff through Calumet pass but finally arrived with enough to keep picture colony's minds off the tough days ahead in the studios.

Trojans redeemed themselves in bouncing Missouri Tigers around gridiron to a jazy tune. Trojans started season with prospects no brighter than Bryan for president, but they ended with a flash.

Old Man 1924 is on his last legs. He did a pretty good job of it if we can believe all the optimists predicting prosperity for the New Year. If everything happens optimists have said will happen, Young Folks 1925 will be brighter than Little Willie at school.

Rail heads, oil magnates, shoe-string makers, bootleggers—everyone but the Democrats and La Follette—have voiced their opinion. Greatest year in history of North and South poles ahead.

It's old stuff but it always gets over with a bang. People would rather believe themselves set for fortunes than poorhouses. Don't know what world would come to if we didn't kid ourselves once in a while.

Bread lines still continue to form, gunmen still prowling at night and Chicago's Loop puts bigger and better padlocks on doors. Prosperity is coming just the same. Sometimes it doesn't arrive on time but it isn't fault of rail head, shoe-string makers and bootleggers. They did their part.

Can't figure much in advance, however, until movie stars recover from spending Xmas with their mothers. Everything expected to be upset like train-wreck until Susie McTish and Gwendolyn Gwinplaine get back under the "make-up."

After which 's'oestring makers and railheads can continue foretelling prosperity. Until then no one will listen to rail heads and shoe-string makers.

Pennsy Warriors to Leave for West Soon

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26.—The University of Pennsylvania football eleven held its last practice here today before starting on their long trans-continental trip to Berkeley, where they meet the California Bear, for five years undefeated on the Pacific coast.

Frank Dewhurst took right tackle in the last workout, as Joe Wilson suffered a broken ankle in Wednesday's scrimmage. Wilson, his leg in a cast, will go along as a spectator.

FEARS
ANSWERS TO MOTHERS
Mrs. S. has a little girl of 18 months who is very much frightened by her own shadow.

You must overcome this by talking with her, pointing out your own shadow and showing her that it cannot hurt her, and so forth. Somewhere along the line she has been frightened and has associated her shadow with the scare. Be persistent in trying to overcome this feeling because it is important for a child to have no abnormal fears. They sometimes form the basis for nervous disorders later in life.

PAGET'S DISEASE
Mrs. C. H.—Paget's disease of the nipple is really a cancerous growth. You must see your surgeon about this and he will use the proper treatment—X-ray, radium, surgery, or so forth.

ACTIVE BABIES
"Dear Dr. Peters:—Should a child of 10 to 15 months be allowed to stand for one or more hours in its bed on soft mattress and spring? What would be the effect of such treatment on the child?"—Mrs. S.

If the child is growing normally I don't believe it will have any harmful effect. Mrs. S. The child evidently is vigorous and healthy and you cannot keep that sort of a child off of his feet. I presume he is being fed pureed vegetables, fruits, cereals and other foods besides his milk, by this time? (We recently had the feeding schedules in the paper.) If baby is not getting a normal diet and not enough sunshine and fresh air, and develops rickets then, of course, you have to be careful to keep him off of his feet. Otherwise his own idea of his activities is about right. Of course no baby should get all of his exercise on a soft mattress and spring, but a firm mat on the floor should be used part of the time.

PRENATAL CARE
Mrs. F.—As soon as a woman knows she is pregnant she should place herself under the care of her physician. If he is skillful and competent he will give a thorough physical examination, take the pelvic measurements, weight, blood pressure, make an examination of the urine, and so forth. He will also take blood tests if necessary. Repeated visits should be made to the doctor every month until the end of the sixth month thereafter at least every two weeks, possibly every week, during the last month or two.

CARE OF THE BREASTS
If the breasts become heavy they must be supported by a well fitting brassiere or specially fitted supports. The nipples should be kept soft and clean. Each day they should be washed with good white soap and warm water and covered with little pieces of perfectly clean cloth with a little softening ointment, such as lanoline, liquid aboline or vaseline. If the nipples are small or retracted they should be grasped between the thumb and the forefinger and gently pulled back and forth at least five minutes a day. There is muscle tissue in the nipple, and it can be developed. It will also tend to make them firmer and less sensitive. We have an article on the diet during pregnancy and nursing. A self fully addressed and stamped envelope will bring it to you.

ANIMAL PETS
Mrs. F.—Children should not have animal pets, especially dogs, until they are old enough to prevent the pets from licking their hands and faces, and until they themselves are old enough to stop putting their own hands into their mouths. Animal pets do serve as carriers of germ diseases if they come into contact with them. This is another point to be thought of.

Mrs. J.—You will find our articles on colic and rickets very helpful. Send for them, and don't forget to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The number of reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible and if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Church Wedding

Christmas morning was chosen by Miss Marjorie Gunion and Charles Du Bois for their wedding, the ceremony taking place at 8 o'clock, Thursday, December 25, 1924, in the parlors of Glendale Presbyterian church, South Louise and East Harvard streets. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the church, read the bridal service before a company of relatives and friends.

For her wedding Miss Gunion wore an ensemble suit in tan and rose with tan turban, and corsage bouquet of rosebuds and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Marguerite Halbrueger of Los Angeles, who wore grey crepe with corsage of rosebuds. Morris Kelley of Los Angeles was best man.

Following the service at the church a wedding breakfast was served at the Oakmont Country club. Over the table hung a huge white wedding bell with decoration of lilies of the valley and white lilies. Smaller wedding bell favors were at each place. A miniature automobile was the centerpiece of the table. It was motoring along "The Road to Happiness" marked by sign post "Matrimony, Stop, Look and Listen." Placecards in a r k e d places for Mr. and Mrs. Charles DuBois, Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Edmonds, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Beamon and Charles Beamon, Mr. and Mrs. DuBois, Miss Gertrude DuBois of Long Beach; Misses Esther Besant, Rhodora, Martel and Mildred McKee, Howard Shinkle, Morris Kelley, Miss Marguerite Halbrueger, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. McKee, Estelle Brain designed and made the artistic favors.

Stealing away from the breakfast company Mr. and Mrs. DuBois left for a wedding trip, from which they will return to their home in Glendale. Both young people have countless friends in Glendale and Los Angeles. Mrs. DuBois, who is a niece of Mrs. E. S. McKee of 120 West Chestnut street, has made her home with the McKee family for several years. Mr. DuBois is a nephew of Mrs. A. M. Beamon of 1446 East California avenue, and has resided with her and her family for many years. He is engaged in architectural work in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. De Laney of 354 West Elk street had as Christmas guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Rehberg of San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. John Rehberg, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rehberg and sons, Robert and Teddy Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rehberg, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. The little church was filled with a wedding company of relatives and friends. Miss Margaret McMillan of Santa Monica attended as maid of honor, and Charles J. Bozelle of San Jose, as best man. Upon their return from a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Manker will reside at 119 North Kenwood street. Mr. Manker is a member of the fire company at station two on Los Feliz road.

Happy Affair

One of the happiest gatherings on Christmas day in Glendale, took place at the George Ward and Ray Sherman home, 302 East Wilson avenue. The house was decorated with Christmas wreaths and bouquets of poinsettias. Two large turkeys featured the dinner menu. The afternoon and evening were spent with games and radio entertainment. There were present, Miss Asher, of Long Beach, and the following from Glendale: Miss Annie Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Wynn Groutage, Gilbert Groutage, Mrs. Mary Hadsell, William Hadsell, Francis Hadsell, Vernal Hadsell, Mr. and Mrs. Knapp Addison, Miss Myrtle Knapp, Henry Ward, Mr. and Mrs. George Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sherman.

That organization entertained directors and stockholders and their families with a Christmas program and tree. Miss Campbell entertained with several impersonations and Miss Wilson with a Christmas number.

Just because Christmas is over do not give up eating cranberries! The cranberry is full of those elements — "vitamines" — without which we cannot keep in a healthy condition. The two following recipes give more interesting ways of preparing cranberries than the customary jelly or sauce.

"Mock Cherry" Pie: To make the upper and lower crust, put one and one-half cups of bread flour into a bowl and work into it, with the fingertips, one-half cup of lard. Add a level teaspoon of salt and stir in two-thirds of a cup of cold water. This should make a stiff paste. Toss it out onto a floured bread board and roll it to one-fourth inch in thickness. Dot this pastry sheet with one-half cup of butter broken in tiny bits, then fold both sides in, so as not to form a long roll and double this roll in the middle so as to form a square. With a sharp knife cut this square in half (one-half for each of the two crusts). Roll out the under crust first (from one-half of the former square of dough) trying to roll it in a circular shape. Lift it onto the pie pan and clip away overhanging edges with a scissors (many housewives prefer scissors to a knife to cut pastry). Now fill the pie after sticking the lower crust all over with a fork.

Pie Filling: Cut enough cranberries in half to fill a cup. Cut enough seeded raisins in small bits to half fill a cup. Mix these two ingredients together, add three-quarters of a cup of granulated sugar and one tablespoon of flour, mix all well, and put it into the pie pan on top of the uncooked lower crust; dot the top of the filling with one tablespoon of butter and put on the top crust (rolled out like bottom crust, and slashed with a knife to allow for escape of steam). Bake in a hot oven for 35 minutes, possibly less.

Steamed Cranberry Pudding: Cream together one-half cup of butter and one cup of sugar; add three well-beaten eggs. Now sift together three and one-half cups of flour, one and one-fourth tablespoons of baking powder and a pinch of salt, and add this to the first mixture alternately with one-half cup of sweet milk. Also add one and one-half cups of cranberries and one-fourth cup of either candied orange peel, citron peel, raisins or dried currants; turn the mixture into buttered baking powder cans. Put on cover and sink cans in boiling water for three hours. Serve hot with any sauce desired.

Tomorrow—Crocheting a Hand Bag

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

PROTEST VOICED IN ASSESSMENTS

Counsel for Canyon Road Property Owners in Council Meeting

Kemper Campbell appeared before the City Council this morning as attorney for property owners protesting the assessment for improvement of Sycamore Canyon road, to which he referred as "a canal," designating as "the submerged tenth" residents in that district below the spillway. He argued that the benefits are not sufficient to warrant the assessment and cited law to show that abutting property owners should not be assessed when the benefits are more than local.

"We are here," he said, "not merely to appeal to the council's sense of justice, but to argue that the assessment is inequitable and void."

Other protestants against the assessment included: A. B. Regnier, H. L. Mitchell, R. Belcher, C. E. Swartsager and E. A. Carr. The council voted to continue the hearing until the meeting of Tuesday, December 30.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

WELL-ROUNDED SHOULDERS

Even the thin woman can have nicely rounded shoulders if she is willing to work for them. It isn't easy, but it is quite possible to build out hollows and cover up sharp bones in four to six months even if the weight has not increased.

You can do it by deep breathing and by rubbing the shoulders with some very fattening cream such as lanoline or cocoa butter. These two fats could not be used on the face because they have a tendency to grow hair, but they are perfectly safe for the neck and shoulders.

If lanoline make it into a cream with olive oil (melt a couple of ounces of lanoline in three or four of the oil) this gives a sticky mixture quite easy to massage. Cocoa butter can be used as it comes in sweet smelling yellow cakes, but it must be warmed to the melting point and then worked into the skin. You can do this by holding the end of the cake far above a candle and rubbing the soft part on the skin quickly before it melts enough to drop off.

Put most of your faith in breathing exercises. The best one is to stand at an open window, or out of doors, and to hold the hands out before you, fists clenched and all muscles tensed. Pull back, so the fists touch the shoulders, always keeping the muscles tensed, and breathing in deeply and steadily as you pull. Extend the arms slowly as you exhale. Do this a dozen times twice a day.

Breathe deeply as you walk in the open air and keep your chest up, that helps wonderfully. Sleep on your back with a low flat pillow to keep the chest in a proper position. Rub with the cocoa butter or lanoline every day, and to save your dresses, pin muslin inside your vest or nightgown for a few hours after the massage as some warm cream is bound to work out of the skin.

Mrs. G.—Bleach the hair on your arms and legs instead of shaving it as this latter method will cause it to grow stronger. Nails that are soft like yours are will be greatly helped if they are massaged regularly as the circulation in them is increased from the huffing, and also by keeping the skin from tightening over the base of the nails.

H. K.—At 20 years of age with a height of five feet, four inches, your weight should be about 120 pounds. When dieting for reduction omit the starchy foods also sweets and fat meats. Peaches and cherries are fattening to the extent of the sugar in them.

This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. Harry G. MacBain Is Appointed Councilman been strongly urged by a large group of business men and others through a petition circulated during the past week. He was prevailed upon by these business men to accept their support for the councilmanic place, it being stressed that a business man and merchant was desired on the city governing body.

Mr. MacBain is a pioneer resident and business man of Glendale, having first established his home here sixteen years ago. At that time he opened MacBain's grocery store, in the same location it now occupies, at 624 East Broadway. The new councilman came to California twenty years ago from Battle Creek, Mich., where he had been manager for the C. W. Post Cereal Co., manufacturers of Post Toasties and Postum.

Mr. MacBain is actively identified with a number of large residential and industrial real estate enterprises in conjunction with A. L. Baird, Peter Ferry and others. Among these projects are Oakmont Heights, La Crescenta Oaks, the Glendale industrial tract of thirty acres, on the west side of San Fernando road, and Frazier Mountain Park.

Besides being a director of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Glendale Kiwanis club, Mr. MacBain is prominent in Masonic circles. He is a member of Unity lodge and Unity chapter and of Glendale commandery, Knights Templar. He is also a member of the Glendale Elks lodge, and resides, with his wife, at 614 East Lomita street.

Tariff Fight Looms on Cotton Importations

ing member of the House ways and means committee, today asserted the House Democrats would resist every effort on the part of cotton manufacturers to increase the tariff duty on cotton manufactures as proposed by Butler.

"We do not take kindly to some of the high tariffs now provided," said Oldfield. "A reasonable revenue tariff on raw materials used in the production of automobiles would save the industry $200,000,000 a year and result in cheaper automobiles. Foreign markets for American automobiles are being restricted through retaliatory tariffs. "It would save the railroads $500,000,000 a year if they could bring about a reduction in the tariff on the commodities they use. They could reduce passenger and freight rates to this extent.

"I consider the present tariff on cotton extremely high. The southern mills are making money and could continue to do so if the present tariff rates were reduced. The New Englanders are too far from the source of supply of raw material, and freight rates added to their cost of production. Many of their mills have not the most modern labor and money-saving machinery. All of New England's troubles cannot be laid to lack of tariff production."

BOXING CHIEFS HOLD FIRST SESSION

Informal Meeting of Newly Appointed Commission
Warns Undesirables

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 26.—Captain Seth W. F. Strelinger of Hollywood, Fire Chief Louis Algren of San Diego and W. H. Hanlon of Sacramento, recently appointed members of the athletic commission by Governor Richardson, met for the first time today and went into informal session, regarding the appointment of a secretary to the commission, carrying a salary of $5600 per annum.

Rumor that Don Shields of Sacramento who sponsored the initiative which authorizes holding of ten and twelve-round boxing bouts under supervision of the commission, stands a good chance of the secretaryship. The first formal session is set for 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Prior to holding their informal session, the boxing commissioners indicated to newspapermen that one of the main matters to be decided today would be the commission's policy with regard to fighters who have been suspended by other state boxing boards.

Undesirables Warned

"California is not going to become a refuge for undesirables of the boxing game," said Hanlon, Sacramento commissioner. "I am in favor of co-operating with other boxing bodies as much as possible. There is no reason why this state should entertain any boxer who has not fought square with the public in other communities. Boxers who are in poor standing with other commissions had better think twice before starting for California."

Approval will be given by the commission today to licenses, and other forms to be used so that preliminary work may be speeded.

RICH ORPHAN'S DEATH PROBE IS WAITED

Poison Tests Made When Sinister Rumors Hint
'Something' Wrong

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—No evidence of foul play in connection with the death of William McClintock, "millionaire orphan," has been discovered up to the present time by the physicians and toxicologists, who examined the exhumed body, it became known on reliable authority today.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—The McClintock death probe today awaited the first preliminary report on the examination of the body of "Billy" McClintock, which was expected to give official verification or denial to the sinister rumors and hints that there was "something wrong" in connection with the death of the last blood heir to the McClintock millions.

And while the physicians and toxicologists were preparing to submit the results of their poison tests to the coroner, William D. Shepperd, foster father of the "millionaire orphan," and chief beneficiary of his will, was speeding to Chicago from Albuquerque, N. M., his Christmas holidays cut short by the launching of the investigation which he declares will prove only that young McClintock died a natural death of typhoid fever.

Today's report of the doctors will not be in any sense complete or final. It is expected to tell only the apparent cause of death and whether or not any poison was found in the vital organs of the body. The complete report will be far more comprehensive, if the present plans for the probe are continued. This will attempt to show whether the typhoid, if such is held to be the cause of death, was contracted naturally or by the administration of typhus germs, either in food or hypodermically.

The determination of the latter, physicians say, will require considerable time and may not be possible at all. A whole field of ugly insinuations had been opened up today by the probe. This ran back as far as the death of McClintock's mother, which in some respects resembled the present mystery.

'Janice Meredith' at The Gateway Theatre

Every now and then comes along a motion picture that contains so much of ability and beauty and lavish expenditure that every one that pretends to know anything at all about the films must see it as a matter of duty, if nothing else. Even more seldom comes a film combining all these qualities, which possesses also the rare attributes of beauty and charm and romantic flavor that will make it a pleasure for all. "Janice Meredith," starring Marion Davies, which shows at the Gateway Theatre today and tomorrow.

It is one of those things that everyone must see for the sheer delight of it, and that everyone also must see to know anything at all about achievement in motion picture making. Miss Davies outshines even herself in this film.

"Janice Meredith" was adapted from Paul Leicester Ford's novel by Lillie Hayward. It was directed by E. Mason Hopper. The settings were by Joseph Urban. It is a Metro-Goldwyn release.

out, Richard Ehlers as Peter Darby gives his best performance, and makes one of the hits of the show. Rosamonde Joyzelle, who as Louise Endicott, one of the guests of Jimmie's, helps to make the bet, not only did clever work, but also looked beautiful to the eye, as did Gertrude Rothe, whose role of Betty Duncan fitted like a glove. Thyra Ruhland in the role of Marie, the maid, is very good, and Arthur Lovejoy as George Van Horne, Jimmie's partner in the bet, gives an exceptionally good characterization.

Mah jongg lovers will have an added cause for merriment as the opening scene is a lesson in that intricate game. The scenic artist deserves appreciation for the artistic setting which the opening act disclosed and the music of "I Love You" which is the theme of the play, was greatly enjoyed and received his share of applause.

KIWANIS THANKS EVENING NEWS

Displays Appreciation of $100 Check Given by
This Newspaper

Kiwanis club members speaking through their retiring president, A. L. Baird, were unanimous in their appreciation of the $100 prize awarded their club by The Glendale Evening News for the largest number of subscribers to The Evening News. The Kiwanis club was given 100 per cent rating by the judges of the contest. The meeting was held at Oakmont Country club at noon today. Burton McGinnis was named by President-elect Frank Fox as secretary for coming year. He succeeds D. H. Webb, one of the four organizers of the Kiwanis club in Glendale. Today's meeting was the last to be held under the 1924 regime of officers.

Among Speakers
Among the speakers were George Lyons, who told of plans for the banquet to be given by the Kiwanis club in honor of the Glendale High School football team, victorious in the Southern California championship; A. L. Ferguson was named chairman of the banquet committee. Bert Perry told of happenings at the meeting of the Los Angeles Kiwanis club he attended last Wednesday. President Baird awarded the attendance prize to Bert Williams. William Hooper donated each member of the Kiwanis a "silent boost" reminder in the form of a leather card case.

Introduces MacBain
Mayor Robinson introduced Harry MacBain as the new member of the City Council succeeding the late Asa Hall. Fred Deal presented to retiring President Baird a gold pin which in turn was handed over to President-elect Fox by President Baird. It was announced that the club attendance for the year averaged eighty-three per cent.

Fred Deal was appointed to attend the zone meeting to be held at Tunjuna, Monday. Walter Gillan was introduced as a new member. James McBryde and W. L. Truitt were named as club representatives to assist the City Council on taxation problems.

Dr. T. C. Young was named chairman of the committee on the installation of officers for the coming year.

Committee reports were made by and on the following: Fred Walton on reception; Max Green, attendance; R. M. Brown, finance; William Bode, Hall-Kiwanis party; Merle Davis, publicity; Bert Woodward, public affairs; John Fraser, underprivileged children
